

The Editor

Rosemary Fry has taught Spanish and/or French to students at every grade level from pre-kindergarten to post-university in her 35 years of service. Her current assignment is Spanish Checkpoint A, B and C at Red Jacket Central School where she is also LOTE department chairperson.

Rosemary earned her BA from Nazareth College of Rochester and her MA from Goddard College. She spent her junior year of college in Madrid and did post-graduate work in Mexico, Ecuador, France, and Spain. She was a Fulbright exchange teacher in Argentina and has led many student trips and exchanges to Spain, France, and Costa Rica.

She is a past member of the NYSAFLT Board of Directors, a turnkey trainer for the Modern Language Regents examination, a recipient of the Ruth E. Wasley award, a regular presenter at NYSAFLT conferences, and a charter member and perennial president of WAFFLE, the NYSAFLT affiliate in the Wayne-Finger Lakes region.

Rosemary lives in Canandaigua with her husband, John, and daughter, Katy. She values living simply, spending time with her family, and finding the balance between physical and mental work. She also enjoys nature, music, and travel.
